

Bookmark Rating Input

By Daniel J. Wilson
djw AT no hormel wilsonet DOT com

Concept Overview

Allow users to rate the sites they visit using a single click. These ratings can be used to organize & create bookmarks and perhaps improve the usability of the browser history. More on that later.

I use the Mac OS X browser OmniWeb 5 in these mockups, but given the relative uniformity of browser interfaces, it could be implemented in nearly any GUI browser on any platform.

Default position: to the immediate left of the address bar

To the right doesn't seem as clear

Like every other toolbar widget, the rating box could be positioned wherever the user wanted.

Rating widget could be inserted here

For browsers that can display a separate URL field, it could appear on either end.

Sheet/window mode toggle switches between simple and navigation

If a user chooses to manually bookmark a site they have already rated, the rating would pre-fill the field in the Add Bookmark sheet/window.

Top-level folder listing

Sub-folders and their contents